Happy Tails: Ollie

Written by: Kathy Wiggins

Goldendoodles are certainly a well-loved dog breed these days and Ollie, being a goldendoodle, is no exception. Found on Craigslist by Brooke in March, puppy Ollie quickly settled into his new forever home, enjoying all the attention that Brooke, her husband, and children could lavish on him.

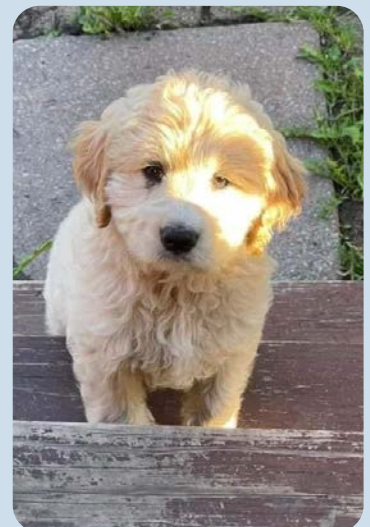

On the evening of July 4th, while he was being held, fireworks startled little Ollie and he made a flying leap. After landing on the ground, Ollie started whimpering as he walked. Brooke and her husband realized Ollie's back left leg "didn't look quite right". They called the Animal Emergency Clinic in Bettendorf and were advised to see how the leg was in the morning. Still no better by then, they took Ollie to the AEC.

An X-ray showed a break in both the tibia and the fibula. The veterinarian at AEC said surgery, which would cost $3-5,000, would be required to mend the breaks. Otherwise, the recommendation was amputation of the injured leg. Brooke did not want to consider amputation but also knew the quoted cost of the surgery was more than her family could afford. Ollie's broken leg was put in a splint and Brooke used Care Credit to pay the $750 bill for the treatment Ollie had received at AEC. She was referred to Rescued by AEC for possible financial assistance on the surgery cost.

Upon speaking with Erin at Rescued about the situation, Brooke was referred to Summer St. Animal Clinic in Burlington, which has experience with the type of surgery Ollie required. The cost of the surgery was less than what had been expected, and Rescued was able to offer $1,200 in financial aid. On July 12th, little Ollie had the needed leg surgery. The next day he was headed back home, in much better shape but not happy with the cone around his head that he had to wear!

Brooke remarked, "Ollie continues to improve daily, although he still must stay in his kennel a good amount of time to limit his activity."

With regards to her experience with Rescued, Brooke remarked, "Erin made it really easy and I will definitely recommend Rescued. I also plan to donate (to Rescued) in the future".
